`:q!` is the `exit` command inside the vim editor.
It is a quick exit and will not save if you didn't use a `:w` option before leaving.

GNU nano 7.2 /home/zainwright/quick-edit.txt *
I enjoy hamsters, they are my favorite rodent.
My favorite type is the Syrian (fancy bear) Hamster.
I have had 3 total hamsters.

I think nano is the better option for quick, plain text, and maybe less organized edits. I think it is way better for writing compared to vim.

the double grep -v strips all comments and blank lines.
It leaves only active configuration lines.
